

Attivio tries to solve data overload with Active Intelligence Engine 3.0

Nov. 2, 2011

As I wrote in this week's Editor's Corner, vendors are increasingly looking for ways to help companies deal with ever-growing amounts of data. To that end, Attivio released Active Intelligence Engine (AIE) 3.0 this week, a tool it claims helps unify disparate data sources across an enterprise and can give you unprecedented insight into the information across an organization. Attivio does this by building custom applications and dashboards on top of AIE that match the needs of each department or user. For more information, see the Attivio press release.

Read more: Attivio tries to solve data overload with Active Intelligence Engine 3.0 - FierceContentManagement